“What are we celebrating at Christmas? What is the message of Christmas? It is the birth of the One who promised peace, joy and love. Try as we will, we cannot realize such values without acknowledging the point of reference for these absolutes: the very person of God and his gift to us of a changed heart and will. That message needs to be heard around our world that is reeling with problems and rife with hate. For we have proven we are not fit to be God.”

G.K. Chesterton was right: “The problem with Christianity is not that it has been tried and found wanting, but that it has been found difficult and left untried.”

LISTEN TO KBCL VIA RADIO OR STREAM

KBCL streams at kbclthebridge.org from 6:00 a.m. till midnight. Most of our morning shows are re-broadcast later in the day, either in the afternoon or evening. If there's something of special interest that you've missed at the end of the day, you can visit the ministries' websites. Their current and some past radio programming is archived there.

The ministries represented in KBCL's daily schedule (shown on the back cover) are designed to be helpful, encouraging and most of all, to help people recognize the fact that Jesus Christ is the answer to the world's problems, whether they be very personal or on a global scale.

Here, we want to say thank you. We are so grateful for the donations made to our ministry. It is allowing us to upgrade to some much needed radio equipment and also to do some interior remodeling to the station. (The better to serve you with :)

We are here to help get the word out. You may have never thought about it, but it's true... a thirty minute program or a 30 second commercial could change your life.

THE EVIL OF PORNOGRAPHY AND A CALL TO HOPE

ERIC METAXAS

Amid all the bad news, there is one cultural shift underway that is a hopeful sign for our times.

A look back at 2,000 years of Christian history teaches many lessons, but one that stands out to me is that when culture looks the darkest, the Church often shines the brightest. From the conversion of pagan Rome, to the saving of civilization during the Dark Ages, to the abolition of slavery, and on and on.

Here in today's America, anyone can look around and see a growing spiritual darkness, but I want to focus on just one issue that has plagued the culture for more than 50 years now.

I'm talking about pornography, and I suspect I don't have to convince you that it has done untold damage to individuals, families, and a culture of life and dignity. But lately, I'm seeing some hope on this front.

Two months ago, John Stonestreet reported that Hilton Hotels removed pornography from all guest rooms because it wasn't consistent with their values. We've also seen great work done by the National Center on Sexual Exploitation, including their recent End Sexual Exploitation Summit, which drew experts and guests from around the world.

Looking forward, Josh McDowell Ministries will hold a major event next April to equip pastors to fight pornography. These are all signs of an impending social thaw on this issue.

To this list, I want to add a new statement just released by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops. "Create in Me a Clean Heart" is a powerful document regarding the evils of pornography and the pastoral action needed to combat it. Those not of the Catholic faith may be tempted to dismiss this statement, but that would be a mistake. There is much for all Christians to appreciate here.

The letter bases opposition to pornography in the great 'yes' that we all have in response to God's call to love. Leading with a positive vision of the human person, the statement says, "Because each of us is created in the image of God, we are given the call—the vocation—of love and communion.Because of the beautiful meaning and dignity communicated by our bodies—which communicate our very selves—our bodies should be treated with the greatest respect."

By contrast, the bishops wrote, pornography "presents and promotes a distorted view of human sexuality, in which the person portrayed, man or woman, is treated as merely a means of pleasure."

A key distinction between the Christian teaching on love and the pervasive mindset of culture is that people are persons to be loved and not objects to be used and discarded. Of course, resisting the temptation to use another—for sexual pleasure or otherwise—can be very difficult for those who have grown up in a culture where such use is common and encouraged. However, as the bishops remind us, "No wound is so deep...as to be out of the reach of Christ's redeeming grace."

Now, there are elements in this statement more ordered to a Catholic audience, but it does a great job of summarizing the many harms of pornography to men, women, and children. It also details pornography's devastating impact on society, including its connection to sex trafficking, child exploitation, divorce, and even abortion.

Perhaps the strongest part of the statement is where the bishops remind us that the church is meant to be a "field hospital" for the world's wounded. Rather than issuing condemnation, the statement reminds us that all people have been harmed by sin. The statement ends with a profound call of love and acceptance to those ensnared by pornography, including those using it and those harmed in its making.

Even though pornography is a "dark 'sign' of the modern world," the light of Christ shines brighter and allows us to "proclaim the truth of the human person in love," and to "provide the Lord's mercy and healing for those wounded by pornography."

Come to BreakPoint.org and we'll link you to the full statement, along with other resources for fighting pornography.

You can listen to BreakPoint Daily on KBCL, and you can also have it delivered to your email box by visiting BreakPoint.org. BreakPoint This Week, a 30 minute program, can be heard on KBCL Sundays at 6:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Defending the Faith - Linking Culture with Truth

Thinking Clearly about the Incarnation Fully Human and Fully Divine

by Stephen R. Patton, M.D.

At Christmas we turn our attention to the Christ child, Emanuel, God with us, and affirm that Jesus was not just a babe born in Bethlehem that grew to a man. We worship Him as God in the flesh. It is the task of Christology to offer rational support for this belief as it is the divine nature of Christ that the rest of the world rejects about him. Muslims, for example, accept Jesus' human nature and revere Him as a prophet but reject the idea of his deity. Christians accept Him as both fully human and fully divine but sometimes de-emphasize his humanity.

The Bible documents His human nature as he experienced human birth (Luke 2:7), temptation and hunger in the wilderness (Matthew 4:1), weariness and thirst at the well (John 4:6) and had physical and mental limitations (Luke 2:52) as he had to grow in stature and knowledge. As a fully grown man he admitted He didn't know the time or place of the second coming (Mark 13:32). He experienced death (Luke 23:46).

The Bible also demonstrates Jesus' deity by documenting His control of nature (Matt 8: 27), the ability to forgive sins (Matt 9:6), foresee the future (John 2:19) and showing His power over death itself by raising Lazarus (John 11:38) and himself (Matt 28:6) from the dead. So how do we think rightly of Jesus' as God and man? Is he a human with supernatural power? Is He God with a human body and human nature. Is He part man and part God? Theologians, Millard Erikson (Christian Theology) and Norman Geisler (Systematic Theology), review the biblical text and discuss this important doctrines of Christology. If the human and divine natures of Christ seem a difficult concept to completely come to grips with, just remember that theologians have debated the subject of Christology for over 2000 years. But here are some of the essentials: 1) Jesus the Son, is not a created being but 2) has the very same, divine nature as the Father. He is not part man and part God but 3) fully Man and fully God. He is not just a human person having taken on divine attributes.

His personhood is that of the second person of the Trinity having two natures; one nature is fully human and the other nature is fully deity. Jesus was not God who became man but God who added humanity to His nature. He was not two persons; one human, the other divine which would be a logical contradiction. Jesus on earth was the second person of the Godhead who took on complete human attributes while retaining the divine nature.. Jesus was one person with two natures; He was fully human and fully God.

He is fully God and truly worthy of worship even in his childhood or infant state. The wise men realized this and offered him gold because he was a king, frankincense because he was a priest and myrrh because He was born to die. They bowed in worship and after encountering the Christ Child could not go back the same way they came. Just like them, after our encounter with the Christ we cannot go home by returning to the way we came but must return home by a different route (Matt 2:12).

From all of us at Shreveport-Bossier Reasons to Believe, we wish all the readers of The Bridge and their families a very merry Christmas and best wishes for the coming new year.

Great Report from Operation Christmas Child

National Collection Week for Operation Christmas Child was very successful in Northwest Louisiana. Our week ran from Nov 16 - Nov 23. We collected 21,118 shoeboxes for distribution throughout the world. We had been praying for our set goal of 8% over last year. We actually achieved a 9.8% increase. Thank you Northwest Louisiana and East Texas. Charles Adcox – OCC Area Director

The Salvation Army is calling for givers to share their personal reasons for donating to the iconic Angel Tree and Red Kettle campaigns by posting their reasons for giving on their Twitter, Facebook or Instagram pages using the hashtag #RedKettleReason or #AngelTree. Creativity in the spirit of giving is highly encouraged! This initiative was created to give community members a way to share their positive thoughts on holiday giving and encourage others to give.

Volunteers are always welcome to assist as Bell Ringers and with Angel Tree. Call Jennifer at 424-3200.

Procrastination-The Thief of Time Rick Grubbs

Consequences of Procrastination

Procrastination is the assassination of your motivation. When God gives a revelation of what He wants in our lives, we get filled with inspiration and pledge to do things beyond imagination, but then comes a hesitation and with it, an evaporation of that determination. To the student, procrastination means the deterioration of your education which brings the defamation of your reputation. In the workplace it can lead to the termination of your occupation which means the elimination of your compensation. Procrastinate on changing your oil, and you will see the disintegration of your transportation. If it's home repairs, it will be the dilapidation of your habitation.

Procrastinate on spending time with your children, and you'll experience the alienation of cherished family relations. But the worst procrastination is when we procrastinate on the things of God, which may lead to the expiration and revocation of God's offer of salvation. So don't procrastinate. Initiate! And redeem the time.

Take Action: Consider the accumulating consequences of your procrastination. What will eventually happen if you don't change?

Here are some meaningful activities you and your family might engage in this Christmas
(Yeah, I know...as if there aren't enough already, right?)

The Talents Challenge

The "Talents Challenge" is taken from the Parable of the Talents that Jesus shared in Matthew 25:14-30. In that parable we are reminded that God has given all of us spiritual and natural resources to use for His kingdom. We are challenged to use the resources and creativity God has imparted to us to gain more souls for the Lord. Will you do that?

*The challenge is simple - Will you spend $100 to fund your own gospel outreach in your community?
It's called a "micro-outreach" because it involves about 1-5 people with a budget of about $100.*

Before you think, "Oh great, another annoying Facebook challenge!" let us explain. Don't challenge people on Facebook to do this – YOU do it. Only use social media to inspire others indirectly through photos and testimonies of what the Lord did. — <https://tagboard.com/TalentsChallenge/205413lents>

*For more information watch the short video at <http://talentschallenge.com/>
If you take up the challenge we'd like to hear your story. Email us at kbcl_radio@bellsouth.net.*

The Praise Challenge

This challenge is for 30 days. Starting as soon as possible, maybe today, set aside 20 minutes. This is not to be a minute or two spread throughout your daily activities) but a consecrated 20 minutes to give God the Father and Jesus Christ thanksgiving and praise. It's called worship.

This personal time with the Lord can certainly be customized and can include music, and scripture... It's between you and Him.

It may be difficult at first and a good portion of that time may be spent asking Him for help to accomplish the task. He will certainly hear and answer your prayer if you are serious about it.

Don't ask for anything else, unless it's forgiveness for sinful attitudes and lack of this meaningful aspect of Christianity. This is not the time for prayer requests.

This is a time set aside to honestly acknowledge Almighty God and his Son, Jesus Christ, and to give thanks. Besides salvation, and the peace, love, and joy that do come with it, we have much to be grateful for. If you are not experiencing that peace, love, and joy, it could be that praise and worship are the lacking components.

You might want to keep a journal, not so much to record your prayer time, but to record what happens to you as the days pass. See if it changes your Christmas this year.

"See? Perfect!"

Create Family Memories

Rick Grubbs

What means more to a child, the things you give them or the time you spend with them? To answer that question I want to do a little experiment.

Get a piece of paper today and write down all the Christmas and birthday gifts you received as a child. If you're like most people, when you do this you'll remember a few of them, but most were long ago forgotten.

Then, on a second piece of paper, list all of the places you went on vacation with your family. Chances are you will be able to recall the great majority of them, even from when you were very young. That's because what makes memories is not so much giving things as it is doing things and spending time together.

In the Old Testament, God established a number of special holidays for the Jewish people. I'm sure part of the reason for that was for the memories it would create, because taking time to create family memories will redeem the time.

Here's an Invitation....

To the Jew...

The Jews say of Jesus:

- "He was a good rabbi. He taught everyone to be nice to one another."
- "He was a good Jew, but Paul made him into a god for the Gentiles."
- "He got in trouble with the authorities and became a political martyr."

One thing is certain; after two thousand years, Jesus of Nazareth is still as controversial in the Jewish community as he was in the first century. Still, most hold to the traditional bottom line that whatever he was, he wasn't the expected Messiah.

Jews for Jesus begs to differ. We believe that Jesus was, and still is, who he claimed to be - the Messiah of Israel and of all nations. At <http://www.jewsforjesus.org/jesus> we present you with arguments for his Messiahship and respond to objections that you may have heard or raised. In this way, we join with those first-century Jews and Gentiles who found Jesus - in Hebrew, Y'shua - to be "the way, the truth, and the life."

To the Cultural and Nominal Christians...

How Can I Know God Personally?

Devote yourself to unselfish religious deeds?
Become a better person so that God will accept you?

You may be surprised that none of those things will work. But God has made it very clear in the Bible how we can know Him. In fact, God is passionate about a relationship with you! (Exodus 34:14

CEB)

The following principles will explain how you can personally begin a relationship with God, right now, through Jesus Christ...

Principle 1: God loves you and offers a wonderful plan for your life.

Principle 2: All of us sin and our sin has separated us from God.

Principle 3: Jesus Christ is God's only provision for our sin. Through Him we can know and experience God's love and plan for our life.

Principle 4: We must individually receive Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord; then we can know and experience God's love and plan for our lives.

Seven Goal Setting Areas

Rick Grubbs

Whenever I go to an all you can eat restaurant I'm always torn between the Biblical principle of temperance, or self-control, and the principle of good stewardship. Most of the time good stewardship ends up the winner.

For every Biblical principle there is a balancing principle. Understanding that fact can be a great help when determining how God wants us to spend our time.

Satan often gets the Christian to waste time, by getting his life out of balance in one direction. But there are at least 7 areas of life where everyone should have goals and schedule activities. They are:

- Spiritual
- Financial
- Family
- Career
- Health
- Social
- Intellectual

A well balanced person sets goals in each area. An out of balance person may limit their usefulness to God by excelling in one area at the expense of all others.

Remember, spiritual, financial, family, career, health, social and intellectual goals will all help redeem the time.

Immanuel: God With Us

If you were to come over to my house around Christmas time, you would notice a number of fairly large and wrapped gift boxes sitting near the front door of our home. These gloriously decorated boxes have all of the color of Christmas. They have all of the glitter and shine associated with the most materialistic holiday of the season. They are even all tied up with great big bows.

There is only one problem with the boxes in front of my house, though. They are empty. If anyone were to come and take them when we weren't looking, they would be taking nothing more than prettified nothingness. The packages contain the fanfare and all of the ceremonial aspects of Christmas, but have no meaning or value inside.

In many ways these packages reflect and represent a lot of Christians today. They dress to the nines in the Christian paraphernalia of our culture. They carry a Bible underneath their arm, attend church, teach Sunday School and all else. Yet, if we were to peel back the paper, tape and bows, oftentimes we would not be able to locate the vibrant, life-giving and abundant life of Jesus Christ within. Without Jesus, Christianity is just another religion among many. After all, He is the very essence of God who came not only to take away the sins of the world, but to reveal the Father to us in the flesh.

In the record of His birth, we read, "She will bear a Son; and you shall call His name Jesus, for He will save His people from their sins." Now all this took place to fulfill what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet: 'Behold, the virgin shall be with child and shall bear a Son, and they shall call His name Immanuel,' which translated means, 'God with us.'" (Matthew 1:21-23) The essence of this passage and event in history is not merely that a baby was born. The essence is that God became a baby. God was in the crib. We read about this in the prophecy found in Isaiah, "For a child will be born to us, a son will be given to us" (Isaiah 9:6) Keep in mind that the child is born, but the Son is given. This is because the Son existed before the child was born. The virgin gave birth to a child but the child that the virgin birthed existed before the virgin ever got pregnant. Therefore, the Son was given, not born.

In the book of Hebrews we are privy to a conversation between God, the Father and Christ, the Son. In it, they talk about Christ coming to earth in the form of a man to do the Father's will, "Therefore, when He comes into the world, He says, 'Sacrifice and offering You have not desired, but a body You have prepared for Me; in whole burnt offering and sacrifices for sin You have taken no pleasure. Then I said, 'Behold, I have come (In the scroll of the book it is written of Me) to do Your will, O God.'" (Hebrews 10:5-7)

Not only did Jesus come to do the Father's will, but He came to represent God, the Father, so that we would know what it is like to have God with us, as the name Immanuel defines. In Colossians, we read, "He (Jesus) is the image of the invisible God" (Colossians 1:15) In Hebrews, "And He (Jesus) is the radiance of His glory and the exact representation of His nature" (Hebrews 1:3) And in John, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God And the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us No one has seen God at any time; the only begotten God who is in the bosom of the Father, He has explained Him." (John 1:1, 14, 18)

Jesus Christ is Immanuel: God with us.
