Happy Thanksgiving!

How appropriate that the Christmas season begins with Thanksgiving. If you want to make your Thanksgiving special, start at the beginning of the month and spend a 15 minute period of time each day giving thanks to the Lord. It might be hard at first – doing only that in the 15 minutes, but by Thanksgiving, your heart will be full and your life blessed.

What if the church...?

by Ayn Mesenger

“Same Kind of Different as Me” (based on a *true story by the same name) is a must-see movie. It’s recent showing at Tinsel Town and the Boardwalk was extended... You might want to see if it’s still playing. If not it should be out on DVD sometime soon.

This movie proves how God can use our hurt to heal.

After seeing an elaborate, very expensive 10-year plan to end homelessness in a major city, Denver Moore, the main character in the movie, says: “If every church reached out to just one homeless person, you can solve the problem in the next 10 days!”

Couldn’t the same principle apply to this: The November 1st release of 1,400 prisoners in Louisiana? LA’s gloomy statistics are that 56% of those released will go back to prison within 3 years or be homeless.

Could the church be the way to prevent recidivism? If just 1400, of the 7,397 Louisiana churches mapped on GPS, adopt one of the former offenders, problem solved.

What if the other 5997 churches provide wrap around services? Helping hands of friendship providing intercessory prayer, housing, jobs, rehab, support groups, medical needs, and education - the things needed to successfully navigate through life’s twists and turns.

As mentioned in the movie, the main solution is not to catch and release... but to give the gift of time.

For more information look into the Forever Free meetings listed in the calendar on page 11 or contact Reverend C.E. McClain at Little Union Baptist Church about his One Church, One Offender program. 318-221- 4491 or 318-518- 0547.

Morally Produced Shingles Vaccine Approved in Both US and Canada

Contact: Children of God for Life, 727-483-9251, info@cogforlife.org

LARGO, Fla., Oct. 25, 2017 / Christian Newswire/ -- Children of God for Life announced today that the long-awaited, morally produced shingles vaccine has received FDA approval for licensing in the US. Shingrix, made by Glaxo SmithKline (GSK) pharmaceutical company is produced using a yeast cell line, unlike Merck's Zostavax which uses aborted fetal cells.

"Until now, people wanting to have protection from shingles have had to either use Merck's aborted fetal version or abstain entirely," stated Debi Vinnedge, Executive Director at Children of God for Life. "We are absolutely thrilled that GSK has finally given the US a moral option!"

Shingrix was also approved for use in Canada last week.

Earlier this year, Children of God for Life issued a press release noting that the Shingrix was likely to get the FDA recommendation as a product of choice. In September, the FDA did exactly that, voting unanimously in its endorsement of Shingrix. (See: www.fiercepharma.com/vaccines/fda-panel-unanimously-endorses-glaxo-s-shingrix-as-1b-market-duel-nears)

The preference for GSK's shot could seriously hurt Merck's Zostavax sales, which totaled $685 million last year. Not only is GSK's Shingrix morally produced, but it is also a far superior product as evidenced by lengthy clinical trials. The studies demonstrated that Shingrix is 97.2% effective in people over 50 years old. It also maintained 90% efficacy in those 70 years old and above with 95% immunity maintained after four years. On the other hand, Merck's Zostavax, is only 38% effective in people over 70 and only 40% duration of immunity after four years.

Shingrix combines a protein from the chickenpox virus called glycoprotein E with the immune systemboosting QS-21 Stimulon made by Aenus. This unique component is made from the bark of the Quillaja saponaria (soap bark) evergreen tree native to central Chile.

Children of God for Life is hoping that with the advancement of Shingrix, GSK could also produce a moral version of the chickenpox vaccine. Merck's Zostavax is simply a stronger version of its' chickenpox vaccine, so it seems possible that GSK could weaken Shingrix for a chickenpox vaccine.

"This is a problem we have dealt with for years and we cannot thank GSK enough for doing it right," noted Vinnedge. "There is absolutely no reason to use the remains of aborted babies to produce vaccines." In June 2005, the Vatican's Pontifical Academy for Life responded to Children of God for Life's request for help stating unequivocally that:

"Doctors and fathers of families have a duty to take recourse to alternative vaccines, putting pressure on the political authorities and health systems so that other vaccines without moral problems become available. They should take recourse, if necessary, to the use of conscientious objection with regard to the use of vaccines produced by means of cell lines of aborted human foetal origin. Equally, they should oppose by all means the vaccines which do not yet have morally acceptable alternatives, creating pressure so that alternative vaccines are prepared, which are not connected with the abortion of a human foetus, and requesting rigorous legal control of the pharmaceutical industry producers."

Likewise, the US Conference of Bishops noted in their April 2015 updated statement that, "The Secretariat of Pro-Life Activities agrees with the National Catholics Bioethics Center, the Catholic Medical Association, and others that manufacturers should be urged to make alternative vaccines more widely available so that Catholics and others will not face this moral dilemma.

"I commend GSK for the development of Shingrix," said John F Brehany, Director of Institutional Relations at the National Catholic Bioethics Center. "And I commend the thousands of people who by their prayers and petitions have helped to bring about this day. I hope they will redouble their efforts. Safe, effective, and ethical vaccines can and should be provided by the pharmaceutical companies. And everyone who respects human life and dignity should make use of these ethical alternatives."

The public is being asked to thank GSK by writing to:

Important news! We are changing our name.

The Ark-La-Tex Crisis Pregnancy Center, a leader in the pro-life movement in our region since 1994, is changing its name to CARE Pregnancy Center.

Why?

- It better describes who we are and what we do - CARE!
- Crisis Pregnancy Center is an outdated name and many of our clients do not consider themselves to be in a crisis.
- Studies have shown that women and men are more drawn to a center name with positive connotations.

What remains the same?

- Our Mission: To reduce the number of abortions by offering life-affirming support and education in an accepting environment.
- Our Vision: To create a culture where abortion is unthinkable.
- Our Services: Free pregnancy testing, free ultrasounds, information about abortion and risks, information about adoption, classes for new moms and dads, maternity and baby items and abortion recovery classes are still available.

It is still the same great ministry, with a new positive name. Look for our new logo and signage, and we would appreciate it if you spread the word. If you have any questions, please contact us at Care Pregnancy Center. 318-861-4600.

More than Enough

By: Jason Weber

In 1981, Herman and Donna Ostry bought a farm just outside of Bruno, Nebraska. But they had a barn with a BIG problem. Every time it rained, the barn flooded. In fact, at one point they measured 29 inches of standing water. One night, Farmer Herman made a joke at the dinner table. "If we just had enough people we could pick this thing up and move it." Everyone laughed. To make a long story short, that's just what they did. On July 30th, 1988, a crowd of 4000 people came to watch 344 people pick up the barn by a steel grid that had been installed and carry it 115 feet up 6 feet of elevation, turn it 90 degrees and set it back down. It took about 20 minutes. Right now, it's likely that the foster care system in your community is flooding. There are more kids who need safe and loving homes than there are families willing to provide them. The traditional approach we take when things are flooding is to grab a bucket and start scooping out water. When we see that it's not working, we just ask for more buckets. We do that in foster care as well -- "if we just had more money" or "if we just had more workers." However, the truth is no quantity of buckets would have made the barn dry. Yes, buckets will make the barn less wet, but they will never make it dry. In the same way, added programs and initiatives may mean fewer kids who don't have a safe and loving place to go. However, we live in a country where there should never be a child that doesn't have a safe and loving place to go.

At some point, we need to stop and say, "It's time to move the barn."

What does that mean?

There are several places around the country that have demonstrated that when the community works together in unity and churches partner with the state as allies rather than adversaries, significant progress can be made and has been made to reduce the number of kids in care and move closer to the day when the barn is on dry ground.

If you pick up a barn but don't know where to take it to get it to dry ground, you've accomplished nothing. We have to know where the dry ground is. And in the foster care system, we believe that dry ground can be summed up in three words:

More than enough.

Throughout scripture, we see a God of "more than enough." When he provided manna in the desert for the people of Israel or when Jesus fed 5000 on the hillside, God didn't provide "not enough," and He didn't provide "just enough."

He provided "more than enough."

We believe this same God can provide more than enough through His church for the kids and families in foster care in your county and state. Here is what we mean by that:

- More than enough foster homes for every child in foster care to have an optimal placement
- More than enough families for every child that needs to be adopted
- More than enough help for biological families trying to stay together or get back together
- More than enough support in the Church for ALL these families

Local foster care movements that have been successful around the country have had a clear and specific vision: "No More Waiting Kids in Colorado" or "300 new foster families" are a couple of examples. Often in foster care, the tendency is to gravitate toward a "more, better, faster" approach (the bucket approach). The problem with that approach is that it might tell us what to do next, but it doesn't paint a clear picture of where we want to end up.

Ultimately, we desire that some manifestation of "more than enough" would be the vision in every community in the country. The great thing about that is that there are specific numbers of kids in care, waiting kids, bio families and adoptive families in every community. Through just a little bit of investigation and asking the right people the right questions, those numbers can be found. And once you know these numbers, "more than enough" can become a very clear and attainable vision for the churches and organizations in your community.

The other great thing about a clear vision is that everyone can easily see the part they need to play. If the vision in a county is adoptive homes for all 75 waiting kids, then the 25 churches involved in the movement there clearly know they have a responsibility to help find permanency for three kids. A church armed with that kind of clear goal will be much more effective than one that is simply asked to do “better.”

Moving the barn for kids and families in foster care in your community will not be easy or happen overnight. However, dry ground is possible and all the people and resources needed to provide more than enough already exist right where you live.

To learn more about how to provide more than enough for kids and families in foster care your community, visit CAFO.org/fostermovement.

Operation Christmas Child

The following is a collection of excerpts from an article we ran last year (Unsolicited Advice about Shoeboxes) from missionary, Katie Garrett who at the time was serving in Senegal with her husband and family. They have been involved for a number of years in the distribution of OCC shoeboxes. Here are some of her ideas:

BEST GIFTS

- A soccer ball for boys. Get the best quality mini soccer ball that you can fit into the Box (or send a deflated ball with a pump)
- Brand new nice short-sleeved shirts (with no writing on them) for boys and girls.
- Small flashlight with batteries (Most families don't have electricity)
- Good quality melamine plate, bowl, and/or cup (Practical and also special.)
- Soap AND a plastic soap dish that has a cover.
- Toothbrush in a toothbrush holder.
- Pencils, erasers, colored pencils, and sharpeners for all school-aged kids. And good quality pens for kids aged 10-14, in black, red, green, and blue. The ones from America last so much longer than those here.

GREAT GIFTS

- Jump ropes
- Band-Aids
- Hard candy and gum
- Comb
- Hair elastics or head bands for girls
- Marbles
- Harmonica
- A simple watch for older kids
- A solar calculator for older kids
- Sunglasses for older kids
- Socks
- For the youngest girls, a baby doll with light brown skin and no hair (good for a child of any color)
- Toy car, truck or airplane big enough to have big wheels

The Lord is the Lord of all – including which child receives which shoebox!

National Collection Week is November 13-20

National Collection Week is upon us. The dates are November 13 – November 20. In 2016, thanks to the generosity of good people in Northwestern Louisiana, we were able to ship 21,242 shoebox gifts with Gospel opportunities to needy children around the world.

- Since 1993, Operation Christmas Child has collected and delivered more than 146 million shoebox gifts to children in more than 160 countries and territories.
- Nearly 11.5 million shoebox gifts were collected worldwide in 2016, with more than 9.1 million collected in the U.S. Our goal for 2017 is 14 million.
