Note from the Editor:

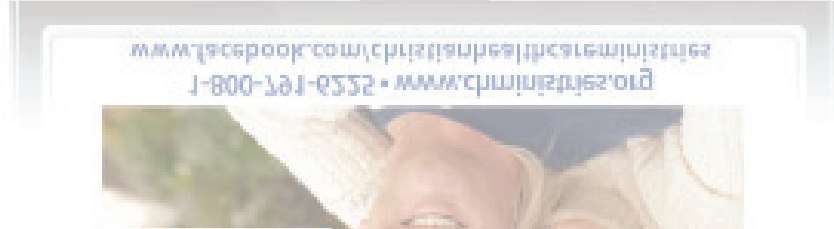

Every vote does count. The values and opinions of registered voters will not be had in public policy if they are not registered at the voting booth. If conservative, Biblical values are what you'd like to see in government, let your voice be heard. Be informed on the issues and vote.

With the events currently going on in Houston, regarding the conflict with the Houston Equal Rights Ordinance, it is interesting to note that voter turnout in the 2013 mayoral elections was dismal - in Detroit, 20%, Atlanta, 17.2%, and Houston, 13.2 %. Defending the Faith - Linking Culture with Truth

False Teachers - Part One What's the Problem?

Mark Riser

There are ten or eleven “religious” or “Christian” channels on the program guide from my satellite provider. Each channel is full of programming from ministers whose names are known and some who are not so well known. It seems that anyone with enough money or “ministry partners” and production facilities can put a program on the air. But, as I look at the lists of programs on each channel, I realize that some of those programs are put on by false teachers.

Haven't you looked at some of these programs and tried to determine who was a good and faithful Bible teacher and who was a false one? They all look good. They all use the church language. Their production values are top notch. How do we tell the good from the bad?

Good production values do not a Biblical teacher make.

It is amazing that even in the early days of the church, the New Testament writers knew that false teachers would come and come quickly. Jesus Himself informed us to “beware of false prophets who come to you in sheep's clothing but inwardly are ravaging wolves” (Matt. 7:15). Peter warns, “But there were also false prophets among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you. They will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Master who bought them, and will bring swift destruction on themselves” (II Peter 2:1). From these two passages we can get an idea of how false teachers operate. They are sneaky and their true motives are hidden. The goal of the false teacher is to prey on the weak and immature and their work always brings destruction.

False teachers will not bring a clear message of salvation to their listeners. Calling those listeners sinners in need of salvation through the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ might be divisive. Instead you might expect to hear messages from false teachers which extol the virtues of the power of positive thinking or confession. One of the biggest problems coming from false teachers today is the idea of the “health and wealth gospel” which is nothing more than an attempt to buy God and purchase miracles with money or, as it's called on their programs, “seed.”

These are just a few of the ways to get a clue on the difference between a Biblical teacher and a false one. It is necessary for you to look beyond the glitzy production values and really listen to what a preacher on television says. Evangelist Justin Peters, who has done a lot of research and speaking in the area of combating false teachers, says that we, as Christians, should be “good Bereans.” This idea comes from the book of Acts where the Jews in the community of Berea “examined the Scriptures daily to see” if the things taught by Paul and Silas about the new faith of Christianity were true (Acts 17:11). As Christians we should be so grounded in the Word of God that we can see whether a preacher is teaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ or using the name of God as a “get rich quick” scheme.

If we realize that there are false teachers out there and stay grounded in the teachings of the Bible, then we will not be taken in by every new wind of teaching or any charlatan that comes into the church or on the religious channels on our television sets.

In my next post, I will look at another specific thing we can do about false teachers.

Here's a Question For You...

Do you realize the relationship between joy and gratitude?

There are lots of studies out there on the benefits of gratitude. Brené Brown is an American author, scholar, public speaker and currently a professor at the Houston Graduate College of Social Work. Here's what she discovered. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2IjSHUc7TXXM>

“I think the relationship between joy and gratitude was one of the most important things I found in my research. I wasn't expecting it, but what I found in these twelve years of research, (11,000 pieces of data) was that I did not interview in all that time a person who would describe themselves as joyful or describe their lives as joyous who did not actively practice gratitude. For me it was very counter intuitive because I went into this thinking that the relationship between joy and gratitude, was “If you're joyful then you should be grateful,” but it wasn't that way at all. It was really that practicing gratitude invites joy into our lives. When I say practice, I think this is the part that really changed my life and family, and changed the way we live every day. When I say practice gratitude, I don't mean the attitude of gratitude or feeling grateful. I mean practicing gratitude. What these people shared in common was a tangible gratitude practice. Some kept gratitude journals, some said out loud, 1-2-3-4...what they were grateful for.

My family says grace at dinner and we've started, after grace, going around the table and saying what we're grateful for. Even on those crazy busy nights, our kids, now, still want us all to say what we're thankful for. It's been extraordinary, because not only does it absolutely invite more joy into our house, but it also gives such a soulful window into what's going on in my kids' lives. It makes us all more aware of what we have, and makes us willing to slow down and be thankful for joyful moments, but also it lets me know more.

There is a great quote from a Jesuit priest that says, ‘It's not joy that makes us grateful, but gratitude that makes us joyful.’

I guess I was shocked and amazed to find that bubble up so strongly in my research. It was life changing.” <http://brenebrown.com>

Besides actively counting our blessings, we can also practice gratitude by actively showing gratefulness to whom it is due, by speaking thanks, writing a note, doing a kind deed in return, telling others what someone did for you. Consider the joy found in practicing gratitude towards our Creator “from whom all blessings flow.” Let's practice counting our blessings and thanks giving year round and not just on the last Thursday of each November. It could be life changing. JMc / Editor

IF YOU HAVE A QUESTION YOU'D LIKE ANSWERED, PLEASE E-MAIL IT TO KBCL_RADIO@BELLSOUTH.NET. THANKS!

For those who tire of excuses why people don't go to church
these are the reasons why I never wash.

1. I was forced to wash as a child.
2. People who wash are hypocrites - they think they're cleaner than others.
3. There are so many kinds of soap I could never decide which was right.
4. I used to wash, but it got boring.
5. I only wash on Christmas and Easter.
6. None of my friends wash.
7. I'll start washing when I'm older.
8. I really don't have the time.
9. The bathroom isn't warm enough.
10. People who make soap are only after your money.

THE GREATEST JOURNEY

The Greatest Journey is the exciting follow-up discipleship program used by Operation Christmas Child to help children become faithful followers of Jesus Christ.

The journey to faith begins when children are offered Gospel storybooks during Operation Christmas Child gift distributions.

The most far-reaching impact comes later, when boys and girls are invited to participate in the voluntary Bible study course produced by Samaritan's Purse. The materials, printed in over 70 languages, contains colorful illustrations that explain the Good News of Jesus Christ in a simple, engaging style.

The 12-lesson set guides children through a study of who Jesus Christ is, what it means to follow Him, and how to share this exciting message with others. After children complete the program, they are presented with a personalized certificate.

To help these boys and girls continue to grow in their faith, we want to provide them with their very own copies of the Greatest Gift of All New Testament. This special edition also includes selected Old Testament stories, a dictionary, and a section that encourages the children to memorize Scripture.

Children in Madagascar participate in "The Greatest Journey," a follow-up discipleship program offered to many children who receive an Operation Christmas Child shoebox gift.

All of the materials used for The Greatest Journey are provided at the request of local churches and ministry partners.

Millions of boys and girls have indicated that they have committed their lives to Jesus Christ after receiving shoe box gifts and participating in our follow-up program. By sharing their faith one-on-one, these children in turn lead friends and relatives to Jesus Christ. Miracles multiply as more and more families come to Christ and churches are planted in communities where none previously existed.

"I give thanks to God for the opportunity He gave me to study the Bible lessons," said 14-year-old Gimena from Paraguay. "Through them, many children have met Jesus. I invited my friends to the classes, and many of them received Jesus as their Savior too."

Children who graduate from "The Greatest Journey" program receive a diploma and a copy of the New Testament. (photo: Peru)

Samaritan's Purse represents much more than just Operation Christmas Child...

"Dear friend, Jesus Christ said the poor would always be among us. Working with Samaritan's Purse around the world, I witness extreme poverty—not only a lack of money or resources, but an utter lack of hope. As Samaritan's Purse works to meet the physical needs of the poor, sick, and suffering, we share the Good News of our Lord and Savior. Christ alone offers hope not only for today but also for eternity." Franklin Graham

The eldest son of Billy and Ruth Bell Graham, Franklin Graham serves as President and CEO of Samaritan's Purse, an international relief organization that provides immediate, no-red-tape response to the physical and spiritual needs of individuals in crisis situations—especially in locations where few others are working. Mr. Graham is also the President of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

International Crisis Response Provides a Historic Opportunity for Witness

Although some among them have lost nearly everything they own because of ISIS persecution, our local church partners are growing bolder both in meeting physical needs and in proclaiming the Gospel. As they help with distributions, they are coming into contact with Yazidis, Muslims, and others who never would have given them a hearing before.

Samaritan's Purse has been actively delivering relief in northern Iraq since 2007. As Syrian refugees flooded into northern Iraq late last year, Samaritan's Purse provided food, medicine, clothing, bedding, and kerosene heaters, among other items. In addition, 65,000 Operation Christmas Child shoebox gifts were airlifted to Erbil in January.

Samaritan's Purse Launches Bold New Initiative to Combat Ebola

As masses of Ebola victims continue to be turned away from Liberia's overcrowded treatment facilities, Samaritan's Purse has begun an innovative new program to help stop the spread of the disease through home-based interventions in some of the most remote areas of the country. The organization's staff is training caregivers to provide supportive care to their infected loved ones while protecting themselves from infection. Illustrated training materials and a home care kit includes head-to-toe protective gear for one person, medicines, hydration items, disinfectants and a sprayer.

While implementing this new program in villages along the River Gee, where families have been left with no option but to care for their loved ones at home, Samaritan's Purse will also be establishing the first Community Care Center in that area.

"If we don't provide education and protective equipment to caregivers, we will be condemning countless numbers of mothers, fathers, daughters and sons to death because they chose not to let their loved ones die alone," said Ebola survivor Dr. Kent Brantly of Samaritan's Purse.

Dr. Kent Brantly, the Samaritan's Purse doctor who contracted Ebola while treating patients in Liberia, was released from Emory University Hospital Aug. 21. Photos courtesy of demoss.com

SAMARITAN'S PURSE - After sharing the story of the Good Samaritan, Jesus said "Go and do likewise." That is the mission of Samaritan's Purse: to follow the example of Christ by helping those in need and proclaiming the hope of the Gospel.
